FamilyFirst

For family law professionals

Attorneys · Mediators · Parenting coordinators · Guardians ad litem

FamilyFirst (iOS and Android, by Jennings Global Solutions) is a co-parenting platform: private messaging with AI tone coaching, a shared custody calendar with a logged swap history, one-tap calls with a call log, shared child expenses with receipts, and child information both parents can reach. One subscription covers both parents, so neither party is excluded by cost.

How records are kept

- Messages are immutable. Each message is stored when sent, with its sender and timestamp. Content cannot be edited after sending; this is enforced by the database itself, not by app policy.
- Deletions are preserved. A parent can hide a message from the chat, but the content is kept and appears in the record marked DELETED, with who deleted it and when. Nothing is ever removed from the record.
- The call log is insert-only. Each entry records that a phone or video call was started, by whom, and when. Call content is never recorded.
- Delivery context is captured. Messages carry read timestamps; expenses carry amounts, payer, split, and settlement status.

The Certified Family Record

Either parent, or an authorized professional, can generate the family's record on demand as a single PDF:

- Cover page. Participants, period covered, entry counts, generation time, a SHA-256 integrity hash, and a Record ID.
- Certification. A statement of record-keeping practices covering the points above.
- Numbered entries. Chronological and sequentially numbered: messages (0001, 0002, ...), call log entries (C-001, ...), shared expenses (E-001, ...). A gap in numbering would indicate an altered document.

Verifying a record

At usefamilyfirst.com/verify, paste the hash from a record's cover page. The page confirms whether FamilyFirst generated a record with that exact hash, when, and with what entry counts. No account is needed, nothing pasted is stored, and nothing about the family is revealed. The hash is registered at the moment of generation, so a document altered after export will not verify. Records exported before November 16, 2026 predate the registry.

Getting direct access

Professionals get free read-only access at usefamilyfirst.com/pro. The parent generates a single-use access code in the app (Settings > Invite a legal professional) and shares it with you; you create a free account and redeem it. Access is read-only at the database level and limited to what the record contains. You will not see phone numbers, payment details, or photo files. The parent sees your access in their settings and can revoke it at any time.

Sample order language

"The parties shall communicate regarding the minor child(ren) through the FamilyFirst application and shall maintain the parenting-time schedule and shared child expenses within it. Either party may produce FamilyFirst Certified Family Records in any proceeding concerning the child(ren)."

Contact

Questions, records requests, or verification help: info@jenningsglobalsolutions.com

This document describes how FamilyFirst stores and exports records. It is not legal advice, and Jennings Global Solutions makes no representation regarding the admissibility of any record in any jurisdiction. Foundation and admissibility remain matters for counsel and the court.